HOLD PLAYGROUND BENEFIT

Fund Started to Purchase Apparatus—To Hold Doll Exhibit This Evening—Chief Crazy Bull to Visit the Children Next Wednesday

Seventy-three children took part in the checker tournament during the past month. Friday afternoon Harry Francis and William Perry were tied for first place and Harry won the deciding game.

The girls on the entertainment committee gave a fine exhibition of stunts under the direction of James Bissett assistant to Miss Margaret Davis, superintendent of the playground. The grounds were decorated with electric lights and colored paper lanterns. Music was furnished by an orthophonic Victrola furnished by the Moe Manufacturing company of Melrose.

LEGION JUNIOR BASEBALL

Representatives of Post 8 Win Opening Game of Series Defeating St. Augustine's Trojans 7-2

The American Legion's Junior Baseball program is a nationally organized Americanism activity. Its purpose is to teach the boys of the country to be better Americans through the lessons which the playing of the great American game affords. The year 1928, when more than 122,000 boys were brought out to the diamonds and given the opportunity to play baseball in a nation-wide competition, has set a high standard for subsequent years.

Co-operating with the American Legion in the program are the National and American Leagues of professional baseball. From these two leagues come the financial support which makes possible the holding of the regional and sectional tournaments and the Junior World Series. Splendid co-operation has been received from minor baseball leagues in the Legion baseball activities in their territories. Many organizations and individuals outside of baseball have also given their support to the movement and the Legion has in a way formed a rallying ground for the men who believe in baseball and in boys.

Tournaments to decide state championships will be held in every state. The state championship teams will meet in twelve regional tournaments, six in the East and six in the West, during August, and the regional winners in the East and West will clash in two sectional tournaments to decide the eastern and western champions. These two teams will be brought together in the Junior World Series, which will be played early in September.

The members of the team winning the Junior World Championship will be guests of the National and American Leagues at the big world series, attending all the games.

All tournaments to decide state champions will be under the direction of the state organization of the Legion, while the Legion's National Americanism Commission will have charge of the regional and sectional tournaments and the Junior World Series. The cities in which the tournaments will be held will be selected on a basis of accessibility, playing grounds and accommodations for the visiting teams.

Andover Post No. 8 sponsored a team that has made an enviable record thus far and boasts of a team that is capable of holding its own with any Junior Legion team in the State. Willing to back the claim by actual competition. Much credit for our own success is given to Coach James Cole, who has given his time to the boys, worked hard and deserves our support. The members of the Post have furnished transportation for all out-of-town games and given their support at all the games, also appropriated a sum of money to get the team started. The players

METROPOLITAN THEATRE
Starting Thursday, August 15th, Metropolitan Theatre patrons will be shown one of the talking screen's most brilliant comedy-dramas titled, "Charming Sinners", adapted as an all-talking play from W. Somerset Maugham's delightful comedy stage success, "The Constant Wife" which enjoyed a highly successful legitimate run in Boston during the past season. The cast includes notable speaking screen artists such as William Powell, Ruth Chatterton, Clive Brook, Mary Nolan, Laura Hope Crews, and Montague Love.

In this smart, sophisticated drama of the "upper world", the audience will enjoy the bright, high comedy as well as the splendid dramatic situations in which the artists mentioned give superlative characterizations. The theme deals with love versus marriage, as only the celebrated author, W. Somerset Maugham, can relate it.

A number of thrilling, climatic situations await those who will see this ultra-smart photoplay produced by Paramount, and so engagingly told through the medium of the talking screen.

Gene Rodemich will become even more popular when he is seen with the Merry Music Makers on the stage in "Royal Sweets", a miniature musical romance-comedy, based on the delightful success of past seasons, "Gaustrark". This is a decided departure from the usual type of stage presentation seen at the Metropolitan Theatre, and the best production yet devised by Charles A. Niggemeyer for Public.

Guy Harrison and the Metropolitan Greater Orchestra have chosen "Liszt Melodies" as the feature Overture presentation at the behest of hundreds of our music-loving patrons.

Arthur Martel continues at the Concert Organ Console with a brand new organ music treat.

A special Paramount Sound News is featured among other short program units including Willie & Eugene Howard in a movietone comedy made for laughs.

For the week starting Thursday, August 22nd, Colleen Moore will be seen and heard in her first all-talking screen opus, "Smiling Irish Eyes", with James Hall as her leading man.

Ants' Skyscrapers

Compared to the structure built by the termite ant, the great skyscrapers of our cities are insignificant achievements. Man, who is five or six feet tall, has built or plans to build to a height of 1,208 feet. The termite, only three-sixteenths of an inch from end to end, erects apartments rising twenty feet into the air.

Therefore man's buildings are only about one-seventh as high as the dwellings of the ant, relatively—that is considering the great difference in their respective sizes. The cubic space in an ant hill will contain a million times more inhabitants than the largest human habitation.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Highest Capital

La Paz, Bolivia, is the loftiest capital in the world, for it stands on a mountain top 12,470 feet above sea level. This is 2,000 feet higher than Quito, in Ecuador, and 5,000 feet higher than Mexico City. Its nearest rival for height is the far distant Lhasa, which stands at an altitude of 11,830 feet. The mean temperature of La Paz is 50 degrees Fahrenheit. But the cold nights are unrelieved by fireless comforts, as the folk have nothing to burn, there being neither coal nor trees in the desolate mountainous regions around the city.

Gothic Leader Interred

Under Calabrian River

Most regions have their buried treasure stories. Cosenza, chief city of Calabria, has one of the oldest and best, according to a writer in the Washington Star. It is at Cosenza that Alaric, first Gothic leader to conquer Imperial Rome, was buried along with priceless treasures captured in Rome. Laden with the riches of the dying empire, Alaric and his barbarian hosts marched south to conquer Africa and the grain which abounded there. In Calabria Alaric died of the fever. His followers buried his treasure with him in the fashion of the day, but they made sure that the dead chieftain's repose would not be disturbed, either by avenging enemies or covetous treasure hunters. They diverted the course of the River Busento and buried Alaric far below the river bed. Then they restored the river to its channel. For security's sake they put to death every one of the prisoners who had helped bury Alaric, and marched on. The grave has never been discovered, though Alaric died 1,500 years ago. Legend has it that the grave is near the confluence of the Crati and the Busento rivers at Cosenza. When I saw this spot it was mostly a dry gravel bed with a narrow stream at which the village women washed their clothes. During the rainy season it is a large river. Its secret holds the same fascination for Calabria that the Nemi galleys hold for Romans.

Recreation Time Must Be Used to Advantage

Work is healthful but it must not have depressing associations. Pauses or changes in monotonous work will cut down boredom and monotony. Rest periods should not necessarily be used for rest, but for relaxations in diversion and recreation. But unless our play actually gives us relaxation, there is no benefit. American life at present is so arranged that play is not relaxation, but hard work, says Dr. Lauren H. Smith in Hygeia Magazine. "Evening used to fall with a hush and tired men came home to rest in contentment. Evening now falls like a ton of bricks. If the house is quiet before midnight the evening is considered a failure. Are we going to give ourselves play, or is it to be frenzy?" he asks. "In order to gain play and rest we must use our time-savers to get ourselves more peaceful leisure than more excitement."

Method in It

At the dinner party one man caused a mild sensation. He was seen to be smoking cigarettes with a silk handkerchief tied tightly around his eyes. One of the guests found the sight more than his curiosity could stand, and asked another diner the meaning of the phenomenon. "Oh, haven't you seen him before?" exclaimed his fellow guest. "That's old Tightwad. I thought everybody knew him." "But I still don't understand," said the other. "Well," exclaimed the knowing one, "he's rather an artful sort of chap. He tells people he can name any cigarette just by smoking it, and so he never has to buy any."

"IF TH' RITZY JANES CAN DO IT, I GUESS I CAN!"

TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON

A COOL drink on a hot day is a most acceptable refreshment. Serve all sorts of cold drinks with the luncheon instead of tea or coffee, for variety.

Pineapple Cup.

Put into a bowl the juice of three lemons, two oranges sliced and seed, one grated pineapple and one cupful of sugar. Let stand an hour to extract the juice, then strain through a fruit press. Add to the juice as much cold water as desired, and two slices of pineapple shredded. Pour into glasses half full of cracked ice.

Pineapple Lemonade.

Take one cupful each of sugar and canned pineapple, one cupful of water and the juice of two lemons. Boil the sugar and water until it thickens. Put the pineapple through the fruit press and add to the sirup the juice of the lemons. When ready to serve add water and sugar to taste. Serve chilled.

Blackberry or Raspberry Shrub.

For every cupful of the juice of the berries take one-half cupful of cider vinegar and two cupfuls of sugar. Put the fruit, sugar and vinegar over the fire, stir until the sugar dissolves and boil until thick; skim if necessary and bottle. When serving allow one-fourth cupful of the sirup to half or three-fourths of a glass of iced water.

Tea Punch.

Pour a quart of boiling water over a tablespoonful of tea. Have the peellings and juice of three lemons and one orange in a pitcher. After the tea has steeped five minutes pour it over the fruit. Add a cupful of sugar and cool. Serve with ice in tall glasses.

Mint Sangaree.

Crush two or three sprays of mint with a lump of sugar. Drop into a glass half full of cracked ice. Add four tablespoonfuls of grape juice and fill the glass to the brim with charged water. Shake and strain into another glass and serve at once.

Made Handsome Income

by "Hurry Up" Weddings

One of the most famous marriage brokers of history was Rev. Alexander Keith, who, at the close of the eighteenth century, did a flourishing trade in clerical marriages in the Mayfair district of London. He used to celebrate as many as 6,000 a year and charged a guinea for each ceremony. He was publicly excommunicated and in return proceeded to excommunicate the bishop of London. Judge Andrews, who tried him, and the rector of St. George's.

James, fourth duke of Hamilton, was married to the beautiful Miss Gunning at the Mayfair chapel with a ring from a curtain at 12:30 a. m. In 1753 the marriage act put an end to Keith's hasty weddings and he retired to private life.

We talk to ourselves in childhood to provide imaginary playmates. In adult life to provide company when we have to be alone a good deal, and in vivid day dreams and soliloquies in which the situation amounts to that of having other people present.

Brass in Industry
The manufacture of brass was given considerable impetus during the Fifteenth century in Belgium, at Goslar, in the Harz, and in Beuthen, Silesia. Later, in the Sixteenth century, it became an industry of Survey, England. It remained for the chemist of 1740, however, to smelt out the pure metallic zinc on a commercial scale. Prior to that the manufacture of brass was accomplished with the use of the calamine ore.

How Poppy Became Symbol
There is some confusion and misunderstanding in regard to the use of the poppy as a symbol, by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The poppy was first sold in this country for war relief before the armistice, when Mme. Guerin disposed of millions of them which had been made by French orphans. The Veterans of Foreign Wars bought the last of her stock. In 1920 the American Legion had a national poppy sale, but in 1921 had a daisy sale. The Veterans of Foreign Wars then had a poppy drive. Later the Legion used the poppy. Both organizations now sell poppies near Memorial day for raising funds for needy veterans, and it seems that this flower has found a place in the American heart along with the red cross upon a white field.

Tit for Tat

"Why, whatever good is education to us?" asked the younger road walker.

"Well?"

"An' she replied with a little bacon."

Where Difficulty Lies

Quite a book might be written on the uninteresting pasts of interesting men. A sequel, more readable, could be on the interesting pasts of uninteresting men. It may be true that the inclination of the tree owes itself to some earlier twig-bending; but the difficulty lies in the fact that every twig receives so many bendings that you never know which bend will become the ultimate inclination.—Boston Herald.

Lightning and Minerals

The bureau of mines says that because lightning has struck often in the same place is no indication that there are mineral deposits there. There is a great difference in the conductivity in different locations. For instance, oak trees are considered good conductors of electricity and maple trees are considered poor conductors of electricity.

Daily Thought

The test of friendship is its fidelity when every charm of fortune and environment has been swept away, and the bare, undraped character alone remains; if love still holds steadfast, and the joy of companionship survives in such an hour, the fellowship becomes a beautiful prophecy of immortality.—Hamilton Wright Mable.

Fifty-Fifty

The well-known Irish comedian, Talbot Farrell, tells the story of a typical "bull" perpetrated by one of his countrymen.

A small touring company was playing to rather meager audiences in a remote Irish town, and the manager, wishing to find out how the attendance at his show compared with the attendances at others, asked one of the local inhabitants how the theater was usually patronized.

"Oh, not so bad, not so bad," was the reply. "Sometimes it's half full, and sometimes it's half empty."—Pearson's Weekly.

Salt in History

Savage races have lived without salt, but history shows that wherever it has been obtainable, even at the cost of much time and money, men have struggled to obtain it. This is probably more because of the zest it gives to foods, than because of its own value as a food. The elements found in salt are usually present in sufficiently large quantities in the diet.

However, the addition of more or less large quantities of salt seems to do no harm to the average person; excessive consumption may affect the assimilation of the food.

Operas

Grove's Dictionary of Music gives the following information concerning the difference between certain types of opera: Comic opera—a term used indiscriminately to denote a musico-dramatic work of an amusing nature. It is not the English equivalent to the French opera-comique, for that term includes works into which seriousness and even tragedy may enter; the type is rather the opera bouffe. Light opera is a term often employed for works in which sentiment counts for more than high spirits, although the latter is not necessarily absent. Grand opera is an opera with continuous music and of a serious nature.

National Forests Popular

Several million every year take advantage of the recreational facilities offered by the national forests. This phase of the administration of the forests is being developed by the forest service in accord with the policy of making these properties of the people serve them to the best advantage. Through trails and roads the forests are made accessible, says the Forestry Almanac. Within them there are many lakes and brooks, admirable for fishing and camping. Game is found in comparative abundance and streams are stocked with fish.

Miners 7—Carrs 6

The B. L. McDonald team nosed out the Carrs last Friday evening after the latter team had tallied two runs in the sixth and another in its half of the seventh inning to tie the score at six-all, in a game played on the local playground. In the final half of the seventh, however, the McDonalds came through with the winning run when but one man was out. The final score was 7 to 6.

The Carrs got away to a pretty start in the first part of the game by scoring three runs in the first two innings. In the second inning the Miners got one back and then in the fourth frame scored five to surge ahead six to three. In the sixth the Carrs secured two more runs and then tallied another in its half of the seventh to tie the count.

Jukins, the first man up for the McDonalds, in the seventh frame, was given a free ticket to first base and Gus Brown was sent in to run for him. Murphy then laid down a neat bunt and went out at first. George Bradley then came through with a hit to right, on which Brown scored the winning run. With a possible change of getting the latter man at the plate, Duncan attempted to block off the runner and at the same time allowed the ball from Bateman to get by him which gave the game to the Miners.

Incidentally, it was a pinch-runner who tied the count for the Carrs in the first half of the seventh inning. Hewitt reached on an error by Flagg, who tumbled his hit down toward first. Riley then sacrificed, advancing Manager William R. Higgins, who had run for Hewitt. Bateman went out at first, Broaca to Flagg after the McDonald pitcher had made a fine stop of a high bounding ball. Higgins went to third on the play. Hollstrom then went in to bat for Johnny Higgins and with two strikes on him Billy Higg started for home. Just before he reached the plate Hollstrom hit one of Broaca's fast ones into left field and the tying run was over. There is hardly any doubt that Higg would have scored providing it had not been called a ball, as two were out at the time.

Harold Bradley, Providence College pitcher, returned from the Cape last Friday, where he had been twirling for the Chatham-Harwich team, and started on the mound for the McDonalds in this game. However, after twirling for three full innings he gave way to a pinch runner, Broaca, in the fourth inning, due to a sore arm. While he worked, he took plenty of time and did not throw them very fast. He held the visiting team to one hit although he passed four and had three runs scored against him. He however, is credited with the victory.

Broaca took up the mound burden in the fourth and from then until the sixth held the Carrs hitless. In the last inning however, they pounded on him for four hits and two runs and then collected another hit in the seventh for another and tying run. Broaca passed one and fanned three while he worked.

For the Carrs Walter Hrinak started on the mound to make his debut in the Greater Lawrence league as a pitcher. He was found for four hits in the two and one-third innings he worked. His inexperience forced him to give way to Fred Maccaron in the third after four runs had been scored from him.

Maccaron twirled the remainder of the contest and allowed but four hits, two coming in succession and allowing two runs just as he entered the game. From then on, he had the McDonalds well in hand. Maccaron passed but one and struck out three.

The feature play of the game came in the sixth inning when Jimmy Murphy made a beautiful throw home from center field to Jukins who nailed Nes Moore at the plate. Nes was on second and Maccaron on third at the time that Duncan singled sharply to center. Maccaron crossed the plate and Moore attempted to score the tying run, but a fast and sure throw, one bounce right into the heart of the plate stopped Moore at that station.

In the opening inning Moore started off with a free ticket and scored ahead of Duncan as the latter patted one into right field for a home-run drive. It was a beautiful and hard hit ball that sailed over Clarke's head and almost down to the right field bleachers. Duncan was almost home before Clarke recovered the ball.

In the first half of the second the Carrs secured another run. Johnny Higgins was passed but went out at second, Ingalls to G. Bradley, while Lyon reached first on the play. Kennedy went out, G. Bradley to Flagg. Hrinak reached on a bad throw by A. Bradley and Lyon crossed the plate. Moore ended the frame at first, G. Bradley to Flagg.

In the latter half of the second Murphy drew a pass. G. Bradley hit to center and Murphy traveled to third on it. G. Bradley stole second. A. Bradley then hit to Lyon who made the play at first but Riley was too far off the bag, playing a bunt, so that he could not get his man at first. He quickly threw the ball back to Duncan, however, getting Murphy at the plate. A. Bradley stole second. Flagg was passed. H. Bradley then fled out to Hewitt while G. Bradley scored. Clarke ended with another fly to Hewitt.

Five runners crossed the plate for the McDonalds in the third. Ingalls beat out a hit to Kennedy. McDonald died to Moore. Jukins hit one too hard for Lyon and reached safely while Ingalls advanced. Murphy was passed, forcing Ingalls home. A. Bradley then hit to Lyon who allowed the ball to go through him and Jukins and Murphy scored while G. Bradley went to third when Hewitt also fumbled the ball. Flagg hit to deep center safely and G. Bradley and A. Bradley tallied. Bachta then batted for Harold Bradley and hit safely to center, advancing Flagg. Clarke died out to Lyon. Ingalls then went out at first, Duncan to Riley.

In the sixth inning with two out Kennedy reached on a hit between first and second. Maccaron hit safely to left and Kennedy advanced. Moore hit to center, scoring Kennedy. Duncan also hit to center, scoring Maccaron, but Moore was caught at the plate, Murphy to Jukins on a fast and sure throw.

Co-incidental with the August 5 price schedule, Studebaker also announces a new seven-passenger Commander Eight sedan priced at $1635 and a President limousine at $2175, thus adding two new units to its eight cylinder lines. Studebaker is selling more eight cylinder automobiles than any manufacturer in America or foreign countries.

Sweet-Cream Butter

Butter made at this time of year for fall and winter use should be churned from Pasteurized sweet cream to insure its keeping well. See that the cream is sweet enough to use in hot coffee without curdling. The butter-making process is practically the same as when sour cream is used. The temperature of the cream for churning should be between 52 degrees and 60 degrees Fahrenheit. About thirty minutes is needed to have the butter come firm enough. Stop churning when the granules are the size of wheat kernels. It is especially important that butter made in summer come in firm granules so that its body will be waxy. When butter comes soft, both the flavor and the body are likely to be greasy, an undesirable characteristic that intensifies with age.

Early Street Lighting
Some form of artificial light must have been in use for domestic purposes from the very earliest times, but though large cities and a high state of civilization existed among the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans, the systematic lighting of streets was unknown to them. From the writings of Libanius, however, who lived in the beginning of the Fourth century after Christ, we may conclude that the streets of his native city, Antioch, were lighted by lamps, and Edessa, in Syria, was similarly illuminated about A. D. 500. Of modern cities Paris was the first to light its streets. In the beginning of the Sixteenth century it was much infested with robbers and incendiaries, so that the inhabitants were ordered in 1524 to keep lights burning after nine o'clock in the evening before all houses fronting a street.

Louisiana Purchase

In the treaty providing for the Louisiana Purchase there was no definition of the boundaries of the territory. When the American commissioners insisted upon a definition of the extent, they were informed that the boundaries were the same as they had been when the land was in the hands of the French, that is, according to Bartholomew's original treaty of retrocession. It included Louisiana west of the Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, most of Kansas, Indian Territory and Colorado east of the Rocky mountains.

$2 For Finding $7000

A lad of fourteen, working to earn money for his college education, found $7000 worth of stocks in the street and did what any honest boy would do—returned them to the owner. For this he was warmly thanked and given a monetary reward of two dollars.

Of course stocks are not at all easy for a thief to dispose of. Being registered in the name of the owner they are not current coin. But no matter.

The payment should have been more. A reward in such a case is a premium on integrity. It should also be in the nature of a fine, levied by the owner against himself, for his carelessness in losing things of value and making other people go to the trouble of returning them.

But a boy shouldn't let the common opinion of his friends about the meagreness of the reward make him sore. Virtue is, to some extent, its own reward—treasure that old adage is. Honestly yields a sense of satisfaction to its possessor that is worth vastly more than $7000, especially if this reward was acquired dishonestly. Both reputation and character were the gainers in that straightforward act of returning the shares. A college education financed by keeping those shares—if it could have been managed—would have been a moral tragedy. Better to have no schooling at all than schooling built upon a foundation of theft.—Boston Traveler, August 14, 1929.

North Main Street Swarms with Engineers and Laborers

Operations on North Main street are progressing full blast along the entire section to be rebuilt, namely from Andover Square to Stimpson's bridge. A drill, blasting and a steam shovel are still at work on the ledge adjoining the Barnard property. A huge crane on the B. & M. tracks is lifting away the stones which form the south wall of the underpass, and as fast as they are removed the goose neck from a steam shovel placed at the edge of the cut on the upper level as well as a smaller one at the lower level are tearing away the gravel widening the cut to accommodate four tracks instead of two.

Drains and catch basins are completed. A manhole rising three feet from the present level of the roadbed gives evidence of the proposed change in grade.

Below the railroad bridge the face wall in front of the Marland Mills property was removed to allow for a widening varying from one to three feet, and is being replaced immediately the excavating is effected. The row of eight ancient elms has fallen beneath the axe, not to mention numerous haw spruces within the wall. Fortunately a row of elm remains on private ground, so that the street is not entirely denuded.

Twenty men swarm about the cement mixer which is compounding the foundations of the new railroad bridge. These foundations lie well over in what was formerly Railroad street.

The electric cars continue to go through, their portion of the bridge still remaining over the railroad.

If those who have mourned at the deplorable narrowness of our Main street and sighed to have it rebuilt could look at it this week, they would surely feel that "something was being done about it."

Stolen Car Driven Through Andover
Driving an automobile which is believed to have been stolen earlier in the evening in Boston, an unknown person passed through Andover square late Saturday night, and narrowly missing Officer Deymond, who was on duty, struck a passing machine a glancing blow, badly damaged another.

Officer Deymond states that he first noticed the car when it approached him at a fast speed. He whistled for the driver to stop, but the signal was ignored, and the car continued to the place at North Main street which is being repaired. The driver noticed the obstruction suddenly and very nearly ran down Special Officer Charles Grey who was on duty at this point.

The machine turned up High street. Officer Deymond commandeered a car driven by Fireman Henry Pomeroy, and pursued the car. At the intersection of High and Haverhill streets, a Dodge coupe operated by William V. Snodgrass of 138 Olive street, Malden, was struck and the whole left side was ripped off.

The trail was lost at a bend in the road just before Haverhill street joins the Den rock road.

Priscilla Ann is the winner of the baby picture contest which has been conducted in a Wakefield newspaper for the past month by a Wakefield photographer, in connection with the paper's own vacation picture contest.

After all but three entries had been eliminated the pictures were submitted to ten different persons for opinion before the winner was selected.

Sitting for Grit and Glory

Baltimore is smitten with an epidemic of pole sitting. Children to the number of twenty or so are sitting on top of poles while adults lend encouragement.

One boy made himself a hero by staying on a pole in his backyard for ten days. The mayor felicitated him. Citizens applauded. And the "hero" is riding around on a brand new bicycle. He is acclaimed "champion juvenile flag-pole sitter of the world."

One sitter fell and broke his leg when his pole toppled over. So now the city's building inspector goes around examining the poles and issuing permits, thus making the sitting performances quite official. A clergyman conducted a service at the foot of one pole the other Sunday, thus giving the affair religious sanction.

It already has the sanction of certain parents or it couldn't continue. And Mayor Broening wrote in the auto-graph album of one contender: "Have courage and determination and remember that grit and stamina are essential in the great struggle of life."

The Baltimore mayor pens a profound truth. But how silly to think youngsters must or should perch atop of poles for days and perhaps weeks to gain these qualities!

The summer heat must have been a bit too strong for some of Baltimore's craniums.—Boston Traveler, August 14, 1929.

Rickard To Broadcast Daily to Madrid Newspaper

Joachim D. Rickard of the Harvard club of Boston and Madrid, has settled his controversy satisfactorily with the Graf Zeppelin interests, and is allowed to make the trip around the world as an official representative for the ABC News Syndicate of Spain. His stories and dispatches will be relayed daily by radio, in which he will relate the adventures of the passengers and ship on the round the world flight.

Until the eleventh hour, Rickard was in doubt as to whether he would be allowed to make the trip, but owing to the fact that he was the first to buy the $9,000 around-the-world ticket before restrictions were made preventing all but the Hearst representative from filing dispatches from the ship, the controversy was finally settled in his favor.

On the last eastward trip from Lakehurst, he was not permitted to send radio to Spain. The Spanish government, as well as the people, are particularly interested in the flight.

This tribe is the largest in North America living in the Dakotas, Montana, and Canada. Chief Crazy Bull's Christian name is William Jacobs. He was born in the Crow Creek reservation, Ft. Thompson, South Dakota, and was educated in the United States government schools. He is a graduate of Haskell Institute and also studied at Kansas university. During the war, he was a member of the 104th Cavalry, troop C, the only Indian cavalry troop in the United States Army, stationed at Fort Rowley, Kansas.

In 1926, at the dedication of the mammoth Haskell stadium at Lawrence, Kansas, the government appointed William Jacobs, or Crazy Bull, as he is called, to make the speech of acceptance on the part of the Indian youth. Vice-President Curtis made the presentation. Mr. Jacobs has been working his way to complete his education in some Eastern college.

When he appears at the Playground on Wednesday afternoon he will wear his war bonnet and Indian costume and all the children of Andover and their parents and friends are invited to hear Chief Crazy Bull tell of his boyhood experiences.

At the same time, Mrs. Charles Ward will exhibit some of the Indian relics which she has collected.

Communication

Being one of the old residents of the town I naturally am interested to help find a location for the new post office promised us by the Government.

Memory carries me back to the little old post office that stood on the corner recently vacated by the removal of Mr. Campion's store.

In those old days one advantage of that corner was that the mail brought from the train to the office did not have to be carried across the Main street an advantage of immense value at the present time!

As to being in the public eye what place being more so than a post office where five roads meet, Main, Central, Essex, High and Elm streets?

Diagonally across the head of Essex street stands the remodeled up-to-date Town Library, a most appropriate near-neighbor to a fine new post office.

What location could be more convenient for the constantly increasing business of our post office?

The one thing of very great importance, is a commodious, suitable, satisfactory setting. A striking example as to how the old can be made to make room for the new is now being staged on Andover Hill.

The best of all good wishes for our promised Government Post office which will receive a grateful and appreciative welcome.

Cancer Clinics

When a person suspects that he or she has cancer the thing to do is to apply immediately to a competent physician or to a clinic for diagnosis and advice. If he has a good family physician, that is the person to go to. If he wants to find a good physician, he should select one who stands well among his fellows, one who occupies a responsible position in a hospital, one who is recommended by some other good doctor.

Clinics are of two kinds: Temporary clinics, which are established for a few days for the purpose of affording free examination at times when cancer weeks, health days or other brief periods of intensive educational activities are being conducted, and permanent clinics, which are usually connected with general hospitals.

In a well conducted clinic, either temporary or permanently established, the patient is given the best of scientific attention. In such places facilities exist for diagnosis that are far beyond the usual resources of private physicians. Furthermore, in clinics there is generally a group of physicians who are specialists in treating the various parts of the body where cancer occurs. Thus, cancer of the tongue is attended to by a man who possesses special knowledge and skill in oral surgery. And so with cancer of the breast, cancer in other locations. It is to be noted that the skillful surgeon who treats the cancer is one who is especially familiar with the part of the body in which the cancer occurs.

Cancer specialists, that is, persons who treat cancer no matter in what location it occurs, are not at all common among persons of high standing in the medical profession. A person who advertises himself as a cancer specialist is usually a charlatan and without any standing among reputable physicians.

have worked hard and showed great spirit in attending practice and giving all they had in the games played. Games are scheduled through the month of August, to be announced later.

A series of games for the championship of the town started last Tuesday evening with the Trojans and there is keen rivalry between the two teams. The fans who attend will see some good baseball and also give the boys the support they deserve, and become a part in this great patriotic American campaign.

The Junior baseball team representing the Andover American Legion Post 8, won the opening of a three-game series for the Junior championship of Andover by defeating the St. Augustine church Trojans, 7 to 2, in a fast and rather interesting game at the Andover playground Tuesday evening. The youngsters played six and one-half innings of ball in shortly over one hour.

Hard hitting by the Legionnaires accounted for their victory. Despite the fact that Manager Frank Davis, Jr., of the Trojans had 10 strikeout victims to his credit he was found for an even dozen hits more of which came opportunely with men on the bases.

Tommy Low, former Pynchard high school pitcher, was on the slab for the Legion nine and he held the opposition to four hits. Erratic playing in critical stages of the game robbed him of a shutout. All of the Trojans runs were scored with two men out in an inning. Tommy passed but two while he fanned seven of the opposing players. Eddie Winters of the Trojans secured two of the hits made against Low while J. Winters and Doherty tallied the other two between them.

O'Donnell led the Legion with the stick, making no less than three clean blows, all singles, while Pete O'Connor, former Pynchard captain, made a double and a triple. Davidson and Bissett also hit the ball hard securing two hits each.

The Legion team, coached by James N. Cole, ex-Bridgton athlete, scored four runs in the opening inning. Skea drew a free ticket to first and advanced a base on a clean hit by Asonian. Both crossed the plate when Pete O'Connor doubled to deep center. Low drew a pass. Bissett in attempting to get away from the ball had the latter hit his bat and roll into fair territory where Frank Davis got it and threw O'Connor out at third. O'Donnell singled scoring Low and Bissett. Grover and Holden ended by striking out.

In the first half of the third the Trojans tallied one. Two were out when Sullivan reached on an error by Asonian. E. and J. Winters singled in order the latter hit scoring Sullivan. In the final half Low opened with a single to left and advanced when J. Davis topped the third strike on Bissett allowing the batter to reach first. Low went out at second third, J. Davis to Sullivan. O'Donnell hit safely to left scoring Bissett. Grover was hit and Holden flied out to J. Davis. Davidson walked flied the sacks. They remained so until Skea fanned.

The Trojans got one back in the fifth. McCartney hit to O'Donnell who erred allowing the runner to reach. He then stole second and third and scored on a hit to short by E. Winters.

Two runners tallied for the Legion in the fifth inning. Gallant batted for Grover and walked. Holden singled to left and went to third when A. Winters allowed the ball to get away from him. Gallant scored on the play. Davidson beat out a bunt scoring Holden. Davidson stole second and went to third on an error by J. Davis. He was left at second and Asonian went down on strikes and O'Connor flied out to J. Winters.

The second game of the series will be played Saturday afternoon at the Andover playground at 2.30 o'clock. The third game will be next Tuesday night regardless of the outcome on Saturday.

Andover Nine Loses to Malden Legion

In a fast nine-inning ball game at Craddock field, Malden, last Saturday the American Legion Junior team of that city, coached by Bill Dempsey, well known track official and playground instructor, defeated the Andover Post, American Legion, Junior team 6 to 3.

Tommy Low of the Andover team pitched good ball throughout despite his being defeated. He allowed the Malden team but nine hits, passed but two and struck out no less than 10 opposing batters. The Andover club outbatted the Malden boys, but failed to hit opportunely enough to win. The score:

Hero of Revolutionary

War Given Recognition

John Sullivan, leader of a military campaign against the Iroquois 150 years ago, which resulted in the opening up of the Genesee country of western New York, has been honored by a special commemorative stamp of two cent denomination.

In 1772, when he was thirty-two, Sullivan became a major in the New Hampshire militia, and two years later was appointed to the provincial assembly of that colony. His first important military victory was won in 1774, when he and John Langdon captured Fort William and Mary at New-castle. In August, 1776, he was made major general in the Continental army.

At the battle of Long Island Sullivan was captured by the British. Released on parole, he bore a message from Lord Howe to the Continental congress, which led to the fruitless conference on Staten island.

After being exchanged he succeeded Gen. Charles Lee as commander of Washington's right wing and later took part in many battles, among them the battles of Trenton, Brandywine and Germantown. He also took part in an attack on Newport and in other engagements in the Revolutionary war.

After resigning from the army he became active in politics and served in many offices. He died in 1795.—New York Times.

Music Students Excel

in Alertness of Mind

One of the claims made for music is that it quickens the mental processes. This contention is right.

Students of music are invariably better advanced in the thinking line than those who have no interest in musical affairs. Furthermore, our association with musicians has caused us to marvel at the alertness of their minds when applied to problems other than music.

At repartee none is quicker than the tongue of the musician. Von Bulow's wit, for example, was instantaneous. His rivals could never get the best of him. Of one of William Sterndale Bennett's compositions he once said: "It is so much like Mendelssohn that one might have thought Sir Julius Benedict had written it." Of Mascagni he said: "He has in his predecessor, Verdi, his own successor, who will live long after him." Once when sailing on an ocean liner he looked longingly at the musicians and remarked: "How lucky those fellows are? They can eat their lunch without music."

Von Bulow was only one of thousands of musicians whose wits have sparkled continuously.

World's Coal Fields

North America, Europe and Asia have the greatest coal fields in the world. The coal fields of China are vast and of great promise, but are still practically untouched. North America surpasses all the continents in the extent and variety of its fuel supplies and the United States lends the world in coal production. There is little prospect of any country surpassing it before that far-distant day when the great coal fields of China are well opened. The coal resources of the United States are 51.8 per cent of the total for the entire world, which in 1925 was estimated at 7,885,000 metric tons.

Pretty Italian Legend

A peasant bell ringer of early days in Italy, writes Satis N. Coleman in his book, "Bells," was so devoted to the large bell which he rang every day that when orders were given for it to be kept silent for a time, his grief was unbearable. He climbed to the belfry, threw his arms about the bell, and wept. Leaning against it he wailed so bitterly and so loudly and the sound of his voice was so intensified by the metal, that his wailing was heard like the mournful ringing of a bell all over the city and far out into the country beyond. There he died, so the story goes, broken-hearted, still clinging to his beloved bell.

Didn't Want to Be Cured

It happened in the waiting room of the Melbourne hospital. He was a full-blooded aboriginal, unversed in the ways of white doctors. He turned to the hefty youth sitting on his left and questioned him about his complaint.

"I got crook tonsils and they're goin' to be cut out," said the youth. The abo. goggled, then turned to the laborer on his right. "What you got?" he asked.

"Gotten 'ave me arm off—me wrist's poisoned,"

Binghl made a bolt for the door. "I got it headache!" he gasped as he ran.—Sydney Bulletin.

Fast Hurt

Mrs. Helldindler was attending her first football game. "Ch, isn't it awful!" she cried. "Why, they will kill the poor boy underneath."

"Don't be silly, mother!" exclaimed her daughter. "He doesn't mind it—he's unconscious by this time."—Pathfinder.

IF JUST A WORD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IF ANY little word of mine
Can make the day more fair,
If just a message, just a line,
Can ease the load of care,
If just a thought can bring you cheer,
When things are looking blue,
If just a word can do, my dear,
The things we think they do—

If any words that I can say,
However poor they are,
Can push a single cloud away,
Or light a single star,
If anything in any case
Can turn your skies to gold,
And make the world a better place,
The way that we are told—

If any message I can send,
Or thought that I can write,
Can make you feel you have a friend,
One faithful friend tonight,
If any message that you scan
Can make your sky more clear,
The way that people say it can—
Then here it is, my dear!

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

FEARING MISTAKES

THE man or woman who fears to tread unfamiliar fields, or hesitates to undertake something apart from the commonplace, simply because of the dread of making mistakes, will never attain a place of distinction. History is replete with golden deeds of men and women who in their beginning made error after error, rubbing them out as they moved along undaunted, until finally they reached the beckoning heights towards which they were ever pressing.

Success is very often built on failures of vision and judgment and then made a glorious monument by their erasures and the applause of a wondering world.

To write an acceptable sonnet involves repeated trials and the frequent drawing of the pen through blunders that slipped in during the excitement of the chase of effective lines and rhymes.

To manage a business without now and then making miscalculations is not possible; so it is with every other form of work, from the building of a skyscraper to the planning of a bungalow or the taking care of a home.

In spite of the intelligence and capacity of the human mind, it frequently puts the saddle on the wrong horse and in its heated quest pursues shadow for substance.

When an old hound gets on the wrong scent, he does not sit on his haunches and whine, but keeps scurrying around until he picks up the trail and reclaims his reputation for being the best hunter in the pack.

To hesitate on the threshold of worthy effort through fear of committing an error, is sheer folly.

To keep going and brushing impediments aside is wisdom.

The wise man or woman accepts his or her mistakes gracefully but turns them to profitable account by avoiding them in the future.

Nothing that man does is perfect. No man is without faults, but every man by persistent effort can overcome them and make a creditable showing worthy of emulation by those timid souls who halt between two opinions and thus accomplish nothing.

The sensible thing to do in every walk of activity, is to have a fixed purpose and stick to it until you rise at the top and stand shoulder to shoulder with the unconquerable.

Just how good at Canning are Andover women and girls?

This question suggested itself today from an announcement in Chicago of a National Canning Contest to find the best jar of canned fruit, vegetables or meat in the country. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars ($1250) in cold cash awaits the woman or girl in the United States whose entry is selected as the best jar of canned food entered in the contest.

The contest, which is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, seeks to acquaint more housewives with the economy and healthfulness of home canned foods. For years the U. S. department of agriculture and home demonstration agents throughout the country have worked for increased production of native canned foods. It is to further this excellent idea and at the same time to help absorb the threatened surplus of farm products in many sections, that this canning project was conceived.

Two hundred and twenty-two cash prizes, totalling $5,825, will be disbursed to the winners in the contest, which has three major divisions: fruit, vegetables and meat. The best entry in each division will be awarded $250, and one of these will also receive the thousand dollar sweepstakes prize, thus bringing the total cash prize for the best jar of canned food in the contest to $1,250. Second prize in each of the three divisions will be $200, third prize $100, and fourth prize $50. There will also be five prizes of $25 each, ten prizes of $10 each and fifty prizes of $5 each. In addition, a thousand dollars in cash will be awarded to the home demonstration agent whose county sends in the greatest number of entries, $500 to the agent whose county has the next largest number, and $100 to the agent whose county sends in the third largest number of entries. A number of lesser merchandise prizes are also offered.

Contest Closes October 15

According to the rules, the contest is open to every woman and girl in the United States. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent; any fruit, vegetable or meat, whether home grown or purchased, is acceptable. Contestants may enter one, two or all three divisions. Entries, regardless of when canned, must not be sent prior to August 15 nor later than October 1, which is the closing date of the contest. No entries will be returned, but instead these will be sent, with the name and address of the contestant, to an orphanage, hospital,

ROGER W. BABSON SAYS ADVANCE IN STOCK PRICES HAS OUTSTRIPPED EARNINGS

Many Security Groups Selling Above Their Real Worth—Prices of a Few Stocks Justified by Fundamental Conditions—Time to Overhaul Security Lists

Babson Park, Massachusetts, August 16, 1929. Earnings of our leading corporations have for the most part scored substantial advances in the first half of 1929. This, however, does not mean that many of the present speculative favorites are justified by their earnings in selling as high as they do. Prices of a few stocks do not appear overvalued on the basis of fundamental conditions, but many others are priced far ahead of their real worth. Remember that stocks cannot indefinitely yield only 2 per cent while high-grade bonds yield 5 per cent or more. The wise investor is the one who will overhaul his list of securities now, and dispose of those which have been "overdone" in the market. He will also pay close attention to building up a strong cash reserve. He will take this opportunity to accumulate a good list of sound bonds. Any number of suitable bonds may be had today at prices that would have been snapped at two years ago! Some day people will be looking at income again and real investment securities will once more become popular. While it is all right to carry a few sound undervalued stocks, held outright, this is no time to be loaded up with high priced, thinly margined, issues.

Gain in Prices Has Outrun Gain in Income

Often it is said that stocks do not sell on the basis of present earnings, but on prospective earnings. Undoubtedly this is true to a large extent. The stock market always tries to forecast the future. That is what makes it so dangerous! To be sure, the successful investor must have the vision to see fundamental developments in an industry ahead of their actual occurrence, but the present speculative fever, in many cases, is not based on sound foresight but on a mob spirit of greed. As a result many issues have been run up to prices entirely unjustified on either present or prospective earnings.

I have been interested recently in examining the earnings of various lines of industry and comparing them with the price advances made by their securities. In the last analysis the investor must turn to earnings for a sound appraisal of his stocks. What do we find? In the first six months of 1929 the net income of the principal automobile accessory companies gained about 40 per cent over the same period of 1928. The price of the stocks, however, on August 1 of 1929 showed a gain of 54 per cent over August 1 of last year. Another group, the chemical and drug companies, showed in the same period a gain of 23 per cent in earnings. This hardly justifies, however, a gain of 92 per cent in the price of the stocks. In other words, the stocks advanced nearly four times as fast as the actual earnings. Another popular group, the office equipment companies, while they registered a total gain of 34 per cent in the first half year's earnings, showed an advance in stock prices of 108 per cent. A number of leading industrial lines show similar disparities between actual achievement and speculative advances in their common stocks. This, of course, does not mean that the stocks in all the companies in these groups are overvalued on earnings. The market is very selective. Some stocks in the same group have been inflated and some neglected, largely according to whether they have been subject to pool manipulation. The fact remains, however, that too many stocks have exceeded the bounds of common sense regarding real values and now present an excellent opportunity for the unwary investor to lose a lot of money.

Some Groups Not Inflated

On the other hand, a few groups are still undervalued on earnings. The oils have been unpopular for several years. Despite overproduction the average net earnings of 25 leading oil companies gained about 50 per cent in the first six months of the present year, compared with the same period last year. Stock prices in the oil group, however, gained only 40 per cent. A few carefully selected oil securities, if held outright for the long pull, should prove profitable. The rails constitute another group whose stock prices have not yet advanced as much as earnings. The average net income of over 30 leading railroads gained 38 per cent in the first half of this year. The railroad stocks, however, gained less than 30 per cent. Also earnings recovery totalled 57 per cent in the rail equipment group, but their stocks have advanced only 16 per cent. It should be remembered that these are averages of a number of companies. Some issues in these depressed groups have shown greater and others less advance, both in earnings and price. The mere fact that a group of stocks is selling below the general market does not indicate that all issues in that group are undervalued. This market is selective, not only in respect to groups, but also in respect to individual companies.

Many of the public utilities have large earning power, but a number of these stocks have been exploited to such an extent that present prices are high enough for a long time to come. While a few carefully selected power and light company issues ought to prove excellent long-growth holdings, to rush in and buy indiscriminately at current prices is very foolish. One must remember that although earnings of the utilities as a group have increased about 12 per cent during the first six months of the year compared with the first six months of last year, the average of utility stocks has increased nearly 100 per cent.

Diverse Market Trends Increase Risks

Although a few popular stocks recently made a new high record for all time, the market as a whole reached its high point last December. Today about 50 per cent of the issues on the New York Stock Exchange are selling under their December prices. Such a spotted situation merely serves to increase the risks of speculation and argues strongly against being over-loaded with stocks at this time. Moreover, high interest rates continue to run against the margin speculator. The truth is that many margin accounts are being gradually eaten up by interest charges, and instead of making money in this very selective market, many people are steadily losing. Investors should now have their funds under complete control, and should have a large part of them in good sound bonds. A few stocks in under-valued companies with excellent long-term prospects are all right to hold. However, overinflated stocks will ultimately drop to levels determined more by earnings and financial position than by pool activities. Contrary to what many would like to believe, the Law of Action and Reaction is still in force!

Business by the Babsonchart is now 7 per cent above normal compared with 2 per cent below normal a year ago.

WOOL TRADE OUTING

Boston Wool Men Disport at Country Club. Feature Exhibition Golf Match by State Champions. Other Sports.

Wool men from distant points attended the annual outing of Boston Wool Trade Association yesterday at the Andover Country Club and a day of sports ended with a dinner at night when prizes were presented to the winners in the many and varied contests.

The big attraction in the afternoon was the best ball exhibition foursome between Emory Stratton, runner-up for the State Championship and Jesse Guilford and Fred Wright, State Champion and Elmer Ward. Francis Ouimet was scheduled to partner Guilford but was called to New York. Stratton and Guilford won 2 up after a great battle between the state champion and the "Siege Gun". The latter shot a 74 the best low gross of the quartet.

Guilford's stylish round was not, it must be explained the only 74 of the day, for Parry Glover of Meadowbrook, playing in the wool trades tournament, duplicated the score and thus won handsomely the gross prize.

Low net scores were the rule. The second and third prizes in class A and all three prizes in class B had to be decided by a general toss-up after ties on the links. Maurice Guerin of Woonsocket won the first net in class A, 16 handicap and under, with 84-70. Paul Clifford, George Best and Elmer Bicknell all had 71s and Clifford and Best took second and third prizes respectively in the toss-up.

The outing began at 8 o'clock and concluded with a dinner in the evening. The four-ball match was the final event of the program and was delayed more than an hour because Guilford ran out of gasoline on his way to Shawsheen.

Stratton's three put the ultimate victors ahead on the second hole. He pitched up to within a foot of the cup and beat the pair of the others. Guilford increased the lead to 2 up on the 411-yard sixth when he landed hole-high with a midiron and sank a 12-footer. Everything was halved until the 10th, when Ward, the wool trades representative in the foursome, broke out with a neat 4, which was 1 under par for this 456-yarder.

He missed a great chance to square the match on the short uphill 11th by booting a four-foot putt for a par 3.

Everything was halved to the 233-yard 15th. Guilford and Wright both reached the green with irons from the tee, but Jesse downed his second putt and Freddy rimmed the cup with a ticklish four-footer.

They halved the remaining holes with Guilford standing off the opposition.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Miss Ada Stevens of Lawrence in Serious Condition at Shawsheen Hospital—Condition Unchanged

Miss Ada Stevens, 25, of 12 Falmouth street, Lawrence, is at the Shawsheen hospital suffering from serious internal injuries and multiple bruises as the result of being hit by an automobile Monday on Haverhill street. At the hospital this morning it was reported that her condition has remained the same since she was admitted.

Miss Stevens was crossing the street near the railroad overhead bridge, accompanied by her mother Mrs. Mary Stevens and sister, Miss Eva Stevens, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Francis A. Trapper, Arthur street, Dracut. The mother and sister managed to get clear of the machine but Miss Stevens was thrown a considerable distance. She was picked up and rushed to the Shawsheen hospital.

This thoroughfare has become a speedway since its reconstruction and efforts have been made by citizens for protection. Hundreds cross daily to the Shawsheen Mills where Miss Stevens was employed. As a result of the accident Chief Frank M. Smith has been on duty at the underpass at the early morning hours, stopping autoists and warning them against speeding. At night this point is very dangerous being poorly lighted.

Science Finds Another

"Birthplace of Mankind"

The traditional site of the Garden of Eden as the birthplace of man is now thought to have been definitely placed. According to Dr. G. G. McCurdy of Yale, man in his present form first appeared about 1,000,000 years ago, probably in Mesopotamia. The theory is based on recent excavations around Bagdad.

A still earlier type of man lived about 1,250,000 years ago, when the climate was uniformly mild. They managed to survive three successive ice ages, during which the glaciers descended from the north and covered a large part of the earth. During the fourth ice age, early man was driven into caves to live and became a nomad.

According to Dr. Ernest Antevs, a Swedish geologist, man began to develop into his present form only about 12,000 years ago. It was about this time that the glaciers receded from the Scandinavian peninsula. It is thought that the polar ice caps may also melt in another similar period of 12,000 years, leaving the earth in a climate of perpetual spring.—Exchange.

Cashed His Education

"Well, my good fellow, this is a great university. Its name is known in every corner of the world. When you leave here you can be proud of your background. Think of it. You have had every advantage a young man could desire. Your four years have been spent in profitable pursuit of the greatest thoughts of the greatest minds the world has known. Now your time has come to choose a profession. The world is entitled to expect a lot from you. What are you going to turn your hand to?"

"I've got a fine job at a pickle factory."—London Tit-Bits.

Natural Gas Waste

The problem of what to do with large quantities of natural gas which are going to waste is troubling the bureau of mines.

In many areas the gas cannot be transported for fuel and local conditions have prevented its being returned to the oil sands to form new gas. The result has been a tremendous waste. The bureau is seeking some means of converting it into products such as methanol, ammonia, formaldehyde and other such things which may be economically transported to markets.

Heavy Loser

All is not sugar for the sweet-potato grower, for of all raisers of vegetables he suffers about the heaviest loss. An average of fully 40 per cent of his crop is lost each year through more than two score plant diseases. The losses occur either in the field, in transportation or on the market. The sweet potato is easily wounded. In fact, when it is broken off the stem it suffers a wound and any one of the lurking organisms is thus enabled to make its destructive way into the potato.—Washington Star.

Romance of Brownings

Throve on Mere Words

By modern standards, says David Loth in "The Brownings," Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett starved their love cruelly. A hand-clasp was beyond all Robert's daring. A kiss was something mentioned in poetry but never attempted in real life. However, they derived a certain pleasure from the realization that their love could thrive on a diet of mere words. And of words they were prodigal indeed. Over the exchange of a lock of hair they lavished enough of ingenuously and typical expression to have made a trunkful of the kind of plays Robert wrote.

His letter suggesting that she trust him with a wisp of black curl was a masterpiece of dignified pleading worthy of a request for a couple of dukedoms and a principality. He felt greatly daring, and well he might. An admirer of Ba's poetry had only three weeks before made a similar though not so elegantly phrased plea. "I am too great a prude for such a thing," she answered.

Bread's Value Recognized

It is a matter of scientific knowledge that the diet choice of the human family, in the majority of cases, is due to a subconscious sense of what the human system needs. That is why bread has been the first of the instinctive choices. The yeast that helps to make bread is rich in antineuritic vitamins. The yeast which causes the bread to rise generates these vitamins in large quantities, which tend to improve the condition of the skin.

Ancient "Doorkeeper"

An ancient wooden "doorkeeper"—a carved figure in the shape of a human being which was found guarding the entrance to a small house erected by Cameron tribesmen of Africa—is in the African hall at the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. The doorkeeper was supposed to be a protection for the skull of a chief within. On ceremonial occasions, the tribesmen made offerings of food and magical medicine to both the skull and the doorkeeper.

Legal Term

The word "bar," in speaking of the law, was originally applied to the rail which separated the court officials from the suitors in court, their advocates and friends. When the case was tried, the suitors presented themselves at the bar, accompanied by their advocates, who addressed the court from that position.

Use for Egg-Timer

A Belfast (Maine) woman has discovered another use for an egg-timer, one built on the lines of an hour glass. When she puts in a long distance call which she wishes to hold to three minutes and no more, she sets the egg timer in front of her and it is a sure indicator of the fleeting time.

Lives in Monoplane

Advice to Sweeties

"Folks would be surprised to know," says a newspaper trade journal, "how many people are working at the business of giving advice in newspaper columns on affairs of the heart." It pays well, too, yet remains a labor of love.—Farm and Fireside.

Treating Crippled Horse

Usually no attempt is made to cure the broken legs of horses because it is expensive and the value of the horse does not warrant this handling. If a horse is very valuable the leg can be cured by the use of slings, splints, etc., by a veterinarian.

Old Puritan Law

A Sabbath day's journey, according to old Puritan law, in a case of necessity, was ten miles, that being one-half of an ordinary day's journey under old custom, which placed the length of a day's journey at 20 miles.

In the capacious interior of a six-foot man-eating leopard shark, caught at Miami, Fla., a taxidermist found a porcupine fish, two leatherjack fish, six rattlesnakes, six chickens, two plovers, a sprinkling of feathers, two plovers, a sprinkling of the legs, numbers, six anchovies, a cowfish, a lizard fish, a sabre fish, a toad fish and a variety of unidentified specimens.

Too Much Static

Little four-year-old Rosemary went to a nearby movie with her parents. The picture was showing a very exciting auto race and the audience was screaming and yelling, much to Rosemary's disgust. She said to her mother (with a finger pressed in each ear): "Mother, let's go home. I can't stand it. Too much static."

Old Silk Rewoven

It is reported that a process has been perfected in the Imperial Research Institute, Osaka, Japan, whereby discarded silk may be put through a chemical process that changes it to a liquid form, then to a jelly, then to a plastic substance that can be made into threads for weaving.

Ghost's Problem

The ghost-writing industry is growing by leaps and bounds. Some of the most successful ghost writers have so much work to do that they are hiring other ghosts to write for them, and you can easily see what that will lead to.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Transparent Toads

Pipa toads, which have recently arrived at the London zoo from South America, are so thin that one can see through them. The eggs, numbering up to 100, are taken by the male and deposited in cavities in the mother's back.

Disturbing Thought

Of course old Adam wasn't very chivalrous nor a very good sport when he said, "the woman tempted me and I did eat," but there are times when we wonder if he did not tell the truth.—Hillbrow News-Herald.

Daily Thought

To know one person who is absolutely to be trusted will do more for a man's moral nature—yes, and even his spiritual nature—than all the sermons he ever heard or can hear.—George MacDonald.
